"From the first campfire and arrowhead, the human condition has advanced through innovation. The International Handbook on Innovation examines with third millennium savvy the fundamentals of innovation from the neuron all the way up to large-scale social enterprises"

David Perkins, Harvard Graduate School of Education

"Given the large cast of distinguished authors and a wide range of discussed issues and fresh perspectives, The International Handbook on Innovation is must reading for anyone interested in innovation"

Andrew Van de Ven, 2001 President, Academy of Management

- Contributions from over 90 distinguished authors covering 17 nations
- International in scope, reflecting global perspectives
- Essential reading for researchers and practitioners in the fields of psychology, management science, business, technology, sociology, philosophy, economics, history, education art, and public policy

The International Handbook on Innovation is the most comprehensive and authoritative account available of what innovation is, how it is measured, how it is developed, how it is managed, and how it affects individuals, companies, societies, and the world as a whole. Leading specialists from around the world, responsible for much of the current research in the field, analyze the multidisciplinary and multifaceted nature of innovation, its types and levels, its criteria, its development, its management, its specificity in various domains and contexts, and societal demands on it. They consider innovation from the viewpoints of psychology, management science, business, technology, sociology, philosophy, economics, history, education, art, and public policy.
